KODAI NATAKA VIZHA: 10 NEW TAMIL PLAYS. APRIL 22 ONWARDS.

The 35th Kodai Nataka Vizha presented by Kartik Fine Arts starts on April 22 and goes on till May 3.

The big change this year is that while the venue is Narada Gana Sabha hall from day one till April 30, the drama shifts to the stage of MFAC sabha hall from May 1 to 3.

There are 12 plays and all will be new ones, as is the tradition of this festival.

S. Anand's Theatrical Stage Crafters is the only one who features for the first time in this festival which honours its founder, late Kartik Rajagopal.

The regular troupes and directors are featured in the line up - from Theatre Marina and Dummies Drama to Legally Yours and PMG Mayurapriya.

The dramas are open to all. Rasikas can review the plays and submit their entries and the best ones get prizes.

There are 30 plus prizes for the theatre groups and artistes in various categories, to be presented at a June 1 event.

Being a popular drama fest, seats fill up fast: besides, as summer peaks, the air-conditioned hall is the refuge of rasikas for 10 evenings. Daily at 7 p.m.

- Photo of Bombay Gnanam, whose play 'Seyyadha Kolai' is directed by Latha Venkat and presented by Theatre Marina at this fest

ELECTIONS 2026

DMK candidate faces black flag demo, all about redevelopment of coastal zone

By Our Edit Team

The sitting MLA of Mylapore, Dha Velu of the DMK is facing perhaps the strongest criticism and receiving anti-support vibes in Pattinapakkam and Srinivasapuram, an area which lies off the seashore.

A group of about 20 – 30 people held a black flag demo on April 15 when he and his DMK party campaigners visited the area to campaign and seek support for the April 23 election. Substantial police men and women were deployed to handle the situation.

Velu took in the buzz around him and proceeded to meet families residing in the 40 / 50 blocks. A resident said Velu spent about three hours.

Spokespeople of the community here said that the MLA has not provided redeveloped housing for them and that despite their meetings with him and state officials, the buck has always been passed down the line. They also demand that what were lands belonging to fishers were taken away for building state staff quarters and that land must be restored.

Velu says the state has been building new housing and flats have been allotted to fishers and this will continue.

The Srinivasapuram-Pattinapakkam zone holds many undercurrents. While a large number of state-built housing blocks are in very bad shape, officials and residents have not been able to arrive at a solution to demolish the blocks and build high-rises as is being done off the Loop Road.

Vested interests rule the roost too. Large tracts are carved out to rent to outsiders and migrant workers, who make at least 5000 plus people here. The rents range from Rs.5,000 to Rs.10,000.

Velu has also been getting bad vibes from communities residing off the Singaravelar Road (Loop Road) off the Marina. From angry women fish hawkers whose roadside stalls were cleaned up by the civic body and hawkers' unhappiness with arrangements in a newly-built GCC fish market.

There are others who blame him for not providing housing in the re-developed blocks here to members of their extended families.

These are areas where over 70% of this population has voted for the DMK in recent elections. This resentment may well be a serious cause for concern for the sitting MLA.

VINCENT'S JOTTINGS

By VINCENT D' SOUZA

Election data is fascinating. It can tell us a lot about neighbourhoods. Not just about voting trends but also about changing motives, shifting loyalties and community-based preferences and local choices. And so it is with Mylapore, rather, the Mylapore Assembly constituency.

An analysis by Venkataraghavn Srinivasan is featured in this issue of Mylapore Times.

I would like to look at other sides of the data.

There are many Mylapores. In Mylapore as a constituency. This is natural and welcome too. This makes the city.

There is the sea-fronted zone. There is the temple zone. There is the old Mylapore zone. There are pockets of communities in areas developed by the TN Urban Habitat Board and remnants of the Slum Clearance Board. And there is the Alwarpet - Boat Club zone.

Voting trends / patterns in each of these zones say a lot.

But in the current situation, on the eve of people about to cast their ballot to elect their MLAs to the state Assembly, we need to look at how we treat an MLA. What we seem to expect from him / her. What really influences our vote. And why we seem to be all mixed up in our knowledge of governance and politics.

Data scientist R. S. Nilakantan's essay in Frontline magazine is headlined - Stop treating your MLA like a municipal Contractor'. He says an MLA is more an auditor and not a fixer. An MLA legislates, debates on issues / projects/ budgets, presents local projects and ensures funds flows for them and makes the executive accountable.

In most cases, we want the MLA to fix things. Streetlights, drains, roads, parking and more. And going with this flow, the MLA seeks state support for these local issues, allots his MLA funds for local 'fix' issues and hopes people will elect him when it is time for the ballot. He refrains from auditing what the state / executive is doing locally. He parrots the state line.

Nilankantan argues that decentralisation is key - everything must happen at the city corporation / mayor / councillors level. More powers and finances to them. And this is what people must demand. Not make an MLA a fixer, a contractor.

Today, we take our local issues to a councillor, to a state engineer, to the MLA, to the department, to the state officer. Or we let things go the way others want to. And then, at election time, we may assess the sitting MLA's record based on how well he or his office dealt with pot-holed roads and open drains. Look closely, and you will realise the MLA has helped to execute what the state/ department / civic body wants to.

Long wait for LPG refill

I booked for LPG through South Madras Gas agency and invoiced April 1 with no. 203171 stated that the delivery will be within a week. When I enquired personally on April 9, I was informed that it will reach me in three days. It is a week now and we have not got the gas. I have received only one cylinder during the Jan to March period. The agency is not allowing customers to enquire in the office. My consumer no. is 32841.

Plea to GCC: clear Warren Road pavement of junk

Warren Road is now a very busy street as buses are diverted; MTC buses on routes 21G, 29C, 1A, A1, 1C, 41D etc. ply here. Warren Road has thickly populated areas - Visalakshi Thottam and Visalakshi Nagar. Elders and children are at a great risk of being hit by buses and cars. The platform here is filled with abandoned two wheelers, autos, fish carts and waste. We, the residents of Warren Road and Abhiramapuram Third Street, request GCC officials to clear all the junk and restore the platform

Memories of jeweller D. K. Murthy

The Mylapore Rewind column in Mylapore Times on renowned jeweller D. K. Murthy rekindled memories and made me share some stories. We lived in the same house where the jeweller had the shop and a workshop in the front space. The house was owned by K. A. Senapathi, two time MP from Palani constituency - of the Congress party. Murthy's neighbour was Bharathan who owned Sri Krishna Banian Stores which used to sell lottery tickets of TN when launched - there would be long queues of people here to buy tickets. Many small jewellers in and around North Mada Street were trained at Murthy's workshop. The building has gone and now NAC Jewellers stands there.

Saiva Siddhanta scholar receives award (Oct. 26, 1996)

By Chitra Sivakumar

Dr. Y. Rathinasabhapathy, editor of the 90-year-old Tamil magazine Sidhantham, is the recipient of this year's Sir Annamalai Chettiar Award. He was honoured with a purse of Rs. 50,000 at a function at the Raja Annamalai Mandram on September 30, in the presence of industrialist A. C. Muthiah, advocate Govind Swaminathan and Justice Mohan. Rathinasabhapathy has been the head of the department of philosophy and Saiva Siddhanta at Annamalai University, from where he graduated, and the University of Madras. He is a disciple of Tirupathiri Puliur Gnanaier Swamigal. On all the days of Margazhi, he delivers a lecture on the subject. He has been engaged in this activity for the past 40 years. He is a resident of Rohini Gardens in R A Puram.

Sithadai, old fashion, makes a comeback (Oct. 19, 1996)

For this Diwali, Rasi Silks is set to revive the sithadai or kutti selai, a fashion wear of yesteryears. Targeted for girls in the 7-11 age group, the kutti sari will be available in pure cotton, polyester and Pochampally silk. "Our research team comes up with a new piece every year, and this year the forecast suggests interest in the sithadai," said Rasi's managing partner, R. Kothandaraman. While the cotton is priced in the Rs. 150 to Rs. 450 range, the silk will cost Rs. 1,500 upwards.

Diocese gets ten new priests

By Our Edit Team

Archbishop George Antonysamy ordained ten deacons as priests of the Madras-Mylapore Catholic diocese at a special Mass held in the open air in the campus of St Thomas Cathedral in San Thome on April 12. Last year, only five were ordained. It is said that ten were last ordained way back in the mid 1950s.

"In times when vocations have fallen this is a good number," said Fr. Joe Andrew, rector of Sacred Heart Seminary located in Karayanchavadi, Poonamallee. "Our average has been six or seven."

While two new priests are from the city centre, the rest are from far-flung areas of the diocese, like Pattabhiram and Pannur.

A youth who joins the seminary after completing his Plus Two studies undergoes 12 years of education and training, at and outside the seminary.

So what challenges do these new priests face in a largely urban diocese?

"They need to understand the changing world and see how they must function effectively in that," said Fr Andrew. "Also, they need to go after youth and families who do not practice the faith or come to church."

New club for children in R. A. Puram. Free activities

By Our Edit Team

Raja Annamalaipuram Residents Association (RAPRA) has launched a new initiative – to groom children in the age group 5 -15 years under the RAPRA Kids Club (RKC).

So what has the Club got to offer?

Women of this area will tell stories and conduct fun games themed on communication skills, leadership and civic engagement.

The club will meet every fortnight and if required more frequently. The first activity is on April 25 This is not just a summer camp but would go on regularly, said an organiser.

The membership for joining this club is free. Parents who desire to enroll their children may contact Bhuvana Pasupathy at 9176544899

The venue -No.13, Second Main Road, R. A. Puram.

S.I.E.T. Dyslexia Centre open for admissions

By Our Edit Team

S.I.E.T. Dyslexia Centre based on Bharathidasan Road is now open for admissions for children with learning difficulties (dyslexia). The centre is located within the S.I.E.T. College campus and has been serving children with learning difficulties for the past 25 years.

Children who are unable to cope with mainstream education can benefit from this centre, which offers both State Board curriculum and the National Institute of Open Schooling (NIOS). Remedial teaching is provided alongside academic subjects to support individual learning needs.

Students opting for the NIOS Board for Std X and XII can attend regular classes at the centre. In addition, S.I.E.T. Dyslexia Centre offers vocational training courses such as: typewriting (English), tailoring and embroidery, baking and weaving.

Many children may face challenges in subjects such as languages, mathematics, and writing (English & Tamil), but with proper guidance and support, they show significant improvement, said Madhumathi Achuthan, centre head and special educator

House-based voting for seniors, disabled is on

By Our Edit Team

Voting is on for seniors and disabled people in Mylapore zone. Those above 85 years and the disabled who signed up to vote can do this Small teams which includes a police staff are visiting houses. They cover about 50 daily in Mylapore zone.

On April 16, GCC division 124 was covered. A sealed cover with ballot is given to registered voter. He/she opens it, marks the choice and drops it in a large sealed box. At the end of day, the votes are registered in a log book.

Only those people who submitted Form 12D requesting home-based voting, a process that was held a fortnight ago, will have teams visiting their houses for the voting.

ELECTIONS 2026

Can the NDA Alliance Crack Mylapore in 2026?

Data from 262 polling booths shows BJP+AIADMK within striking distance of DMK - but the math only works if alliance votes actually transfer

By Venkataraghavn Srinivasan

Walk down C. V. Raman Salai in Alwarpet on any given morning and the political arithmetic of Mylapore constituency becomes visible in the housing itself - gated apartment complexes and independent bungalows whose residents voted for the BJP at a remarkable 81.7% in the 2024 Lok Sabha elections.

Travel six kilometres south-east to the narrow lanes of Dooming Kuppam on the San Thome coast, and the number flips with equal conviction: over 74% for the DMK, booth after booth, with the BJP an afterthought in the single digits.

Mylapore is a constituency of two cities occupying the same postal code. A granular analysis of official 2024 booth wise voting data - covering all 262 polling stations and 1,36,759 votes cast - lays bare a political geography of stark contrasts, and raises one critical question for 2026: can a BJP-AIADMK alliance, now formalised under the National Democratic Alliance banner, stitch together enough of the anti-DMK vote to actually win?

The data says: possibly - but only if the votes actually transfer.

2024 Lok Sabha election votes >> DMK - 47.4% votes. 28.1% - BJP 15.5 - AIADMK

BJP in 2024

The BJP's 2024 performance in Mylapore was not so much an election result as a demographic expression. In booth after booth covering the upscale residential belt - Alwarpet, Abiramapuram, Luz Church Road, Warren Road, R.A. Puram, R.A. Puram, and the Mylapore temple corridor - the party swept votes

Booth 42, covering the C.V. Raman Salai and Desika Road apartment clusters in Alwarpet, recorded an 81.7% BJP vote - the highest in the constituency. Close behind: Abiramapuram 4th Street at 79.2%, Luz Church Road at 76.3%,

In these neighbourhoods, the DMK vote barely scraped 12-18%, and the AIADMK had essentially no presence.

DMK in fisher areas in 2024

If the BJP's Mylapore is defined by apartment towers and car parks, the DMK's Mylapore is defined by the sea. The fishing settlements of Dooming Kuppam and the San Thome coastline - some of Chennai's oldest and most densely settled communities - delivered some of the most lopsided results in the entire constituency.

Booths 163, 165, 166 and 164, all covering sections of Doomingkuppam's TNSCB blocks, produced DMK votes of 77.4%, 74.0%, 74.2% and 70.9% respectively.

But over the recent years, the fishers community here has been put off with Chennai Corporation action of clearing off women fish hawkers from the Loop Road, the 'flop' business in newly-constructed fish market and Blue Flag beach plans that propose to cover the sands off this road and will need fishers to shift some boats/gear/nets. The sitting MLA (DMK) seeking re-election, has faced severe criticism and challenges. Will the hardcore pro-DMK voters opt for another symbol? If this mood swings hard, DMK loses its big vote bank.

AIADMK votes scattered

The AIADMK vote is scattered in dribs and drabs across 262 booths rather than concentrated into decisive clusters. This has a double implication for 2026: on one hand, it means AIADMK's votes, if transferred, would incrementally boost NDA across a wide swathe of booths rather than producing dramatic local reversals.

If every vote cast for BJP and AIADMK in 2024 is counted jointly as an NDA vote in 2026 - a pure paper addition - the result is this: NDA gets - 43.6%. DMK alliance - 47.4%

In the event that the alliance does achieve strong vote transfer, the decisive battle ground will not be Alwarpet or Doomingkuppam - those outcomes are already written. The fight will happen in 41 swing booths: mixed-income, mixed-community neighbourhoods where DMK won narrowly in 2024 and NDA, theoretically, leads in 2026.

Booths 188, 195, 197 (Mandaveli periphery), Booths 39 and 12 (Teynampet-adjacent), and Booth 49 (a 678-voter booth where the margins are within 6%) are the places political managers on both sides will be counting votes on results night.

Verdict: Competitive, not Decided

What the 2024 booth wise data establishes, unambiguously, is that Mylapore is no longer a safe seat for anyone - it is a constituency in genuine contention, whose outcome in 2026 will be determined by human factors that no spreadsheet can model.

The DMK enters the cycle with the largest vote share, the deepest geographic spread, and the most reliable fortress booths. The NDA enters with a newly combined vote base that, on paper, closes the gap to under 4 percentage points.

But Indian elections - and Tamil Nadu elections especially - are not decided on paper. They are decided on whether a fisherman in Dooming Kuppam is moved enough to turn out, whether an apartment-dweller in Alwarpet trusts the alliance candidate, and whether an AIADMK loyalist in Thiruvalluvar Salai decides to follow the party flag into unfamiliar political territory. The bigger question is to examine the influence of the new "Vijay Factor", will that be aiding the incumbent or end up being the disruptor?

The key question - the question of transfer - is the only one that matters in Mylapore in 2026. And it is the one question the data cannot answer.

Celebrating Gudi Padwa . . .

By Meera Rao

Members of Mahratta Education Fund, based in Alwarpet celebrated Gudi Padwa on March 19 evening at their premises on TTK Road. A celebration of the new year by Maharastrians.

Sanskrit scholar Vasudev Rao performed 'puja' of the 'gudi' (flag). He also read the almanac (panchangam) for the new year.

Once the formal event was over, members were served a special plate of snacks, traditionally Maharastrian. One drink was panak, made of jaggery, lemon juice and cardamom. The second was taak, akin to buttermilk, made with curry leaves, ginger, asafoetida and mountain salt.

Koshimbir, made of a mix of soaked moong dal, coconut, lemon and cucumber, was served. The plate also had common snacks of the evening.

IT IS HOT. REAL HOT. COMMUNITIES OFFER BUTTERMILK

Groups in Dr Ranga Road and in Mandaveli reach out

By Baskar Seshadri and Ganga Sridhar

A few Mylapore communities reach out to thirsty souls in summer. They offer water or buttermilk.

One such are the residents of Dwaraka Apartments on Dr Ranga Road, Mylapore.

They take turns to source the curd, make the butter milk and then offer glasses of it to people at their gate, till noon. Everybody is welcome to have a drink – be it salesmen, load workers, auto drivers and hawkers.

This service has been offered for some years now; done quietly and happily.

Residents in the Raja Street zone in Mandaveli are doing their bit too to help quench the thirst of people on the street. Some of them have kept drinking water pots at their gates. One such is located outside Dwaraka Apartments in Raja Street. Said a resident, “Many people head to the Primary Health Centre on the next street and they seek water. Then there are salesmen, workers, maids and watchmen too.”

Buttermilk distribution has started in a small way now. “We hope the buttermilk distribution will go on when the heatwave conditions persist,” said a volunteer
